

Smooth mover: music promoter Harvey Goldsmith, who helped organise Live 8 and Live Aid, has taken 3,143 sq ft of office space on London's Regent Street for his music and entertainment agency Ignite. It will move from its Margaret Street office to the fifth floor of Langham House, where it has signed a 10-year lease with the Crown Estate. It will pay £35/sq ft with an initial four-month rent-free period, a further five months rent free in the second year, and a break at the fifth year. James Andrew International advised Ignite; Regent Street Office advised the Crown.